

Unit 11: Summer Task

Psychological Perspectives

Produce a Formative Assessment for Freud's psychodynamic approach

You need to:

Explain what the psychodynamic approach is

Explain the ID, ego and super ego

Explain the psychosexual stages

Explain the unconscious mind

Explain the importance of early childhood experiences

Explain how this helps to explain behaviour

Explain how this is used in health and social care – dream analysis, counselling sessions

Presenting your work:

Video recording

Voice recording

This can be as a mind map

PowerPoint

Include references

Video clips

Images to help your understanding

DO NOT COPY AND PASTE

Please see Mrs Ward during your taster week if you need any help.

Stuck?

Structure...

The psychodynamic approach is....

The ID is....

The ego is....

The super ego....

This can be applied to a person by....

A nervous person would be....

A confident person would be...

The psychosexual stages are...

They apply to behaviour by....

These link to the importance of early childhood experiences because...

The unconscious mind is....

This explains behaviour by...

When working in Health and Social Care we should be aware of dream analysis, which is....

This helps behaviour because...

When working as a counsellor you could use this theory to support service users because.... This would help because....